RAIDOR » The world television premiere of "extraORDINARY: The Bill Atkinson Story," the inspiring documentary film about the first quadriplegic priest to be ordained in the Catholic Church's history, will be aired on PBS station WHYY, Philadelphia on Sunday, Nov. 1, at 5 p.m. in celebration of All Saints Day.

"extraORDINARY: The Bill Atkinson Story" chronicles one Philadelphia man's inspiring life, from tragedy to potential sainthood. Hospitalized and near death as a teenager, viewers will be able to follow his incredible journey through rehabilitation and recovery to becoming the first quadriplegic priest in the Catholic Church's 2,000-year history. Father Bill, as he was fondly known, went on to positively influence the lives of so many individuals. He conducted baptisms and weddings as a priest and taught at Monsignor Bonner High School in Drexel Hill from 1975 until 2004, educating and motivating students as a teacher.

Born in 1946, Rev. Bill Atkinson, OSA, was a native of Upper Darby, where he attended St. Alice Elementary School and then graduated from Bonner. He spent a year as a postulant at Augustinian Academy in Staten Island, N.Y., and then entered the Order of St. Augustine as a novice at Our Mother of Good Counsel Novitiate, New Hamburg, N.Y., in 1964. It was there that his life-changing accident happened on Feb. 22, 1965.

On a cold day, Atkinson was tobogganing with his fellow novices when his

Although he had limited movement only in his head, neck, shoulders and arms, he was determined to continue his studies to become an Augustinian priest. He came to St. Mary's Hall at Villanova University, at the time the Province's Collegiate House of Formation, where he began his novitiate once again in 1969. He professed his simple vows; then in 1973, he professed his solemn vows. Throughout these years, a group of Augustinians cared for Atkinson who occupied a motorized wheelchair.

Energy Transfer is one of the largest and most diversified energy logistics companies in the country, with approximately 3,000 miles of pipeline infrastructure and gathering systems located in Pennsylvania.

"This grant came at a time when it is becoming harder to maintain the equipment that we use to save lives, because of stricter requirements and rising prices," said Chester Heights Fire Co. President Sam Jannucci, Sr. "We are so appreciative of Energy Transfer for recognizing this need and for their continued support of first responders."

The Energy Transfer First Responder Fund provides grants to help further the primary mission of first responder organizations, including local fire departments, emergency medical services, county emergency management agencies, county, regional and local police departments, and other eligible agencies. Grants are determined based on a competitive application and review process, and written applications are accepted on a rolling basis for the following cycle.

The Chester Heights Fire Co. is an all-volunteer fire department of 35 active members serving a ten-square-mile area including Chester Heights and a portion of Thornbury. Since 1947, Chester Heights Fire Co. has delivered fire, rescue and EMS services 24/7/365 days a year.

Annual Veterans Day essay contest begins for middle school students

The Delaware County Intermediate Unit and the Veterans Legacy Project invite Delaware County students in grades 6-8 to enter the 2020 Veterans Day Essay Contest. The purpose of the contest is to challenge students to think about war and freedom in ways they never have before, to gain a sense of pride in our country and to honor and respect those brave individuals who have risked their lives for our freedom.

The first, second and third place winners will receive cash prizes and a certificate and will be invited to read their essays at the Veterans Day Ceremony in Media on Wednesday, Nov. 11, at 11:11 a.m.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the traditional Veterans Day Parade will not take place. However, in its place will be a brief ceremony honoring all veterans, to be held in front of the Media Courthouse. The essay contest will focus on veterans of all wars. Only one entry per student is allowed. To complete the essay, students must interview a family member or a close family friend who has served in the United States military and write an essay of about this person's experiences. Students should include the veteran's military branch, dates of service, his/her job role in the service, where he/she served, any war experience and any advice the veteran may have for young people about serving in the military. Creativity is encouraged.

Essays will be read by a panel and judged according to adherence to the theme/question(s), creativity and basic conventions of writing. The following rules apply:

- Maximum of 200 words, researched through veteran interviews. Publications, books, internet or classroom studies may also be used for additional resources.

- Essays must be typed on 8 1/2 by 11 inch paper with a separate cover sheet indicating the student's name, grade, phone number, email address, school and teacher's name.

- Submission deadline is Wednesday, Nov. 4, by 6 p.m. Winners notified by Nov. 6.

- All entries become property of DCIU and the U.S. Veterans Legacy Project.
- All submissions must be emailed to the attention of Adriene Irving at airving@dciu.org. Call 610-938-9000, ext. 2051, for further information or if there are any questions or concerns.

Killer Mike to earn Change Maker Award at Billboard Awards

NEW YORK -> Grammy-winning rapper and social-political activist Killer Mike will receive the first Billboard Change Maker Award at the 2020 Billboard Music Awards.

NBC and Dick Clark Productions announced the new award and recipient Monday, two days ahead of the show, which will air live on NBC from the Dolby Theatre at 8 p.m.

Atlanta-born Killer Mike first made waves in music with his appearance on Outkast's 2000 album, "Stankonia." He later won a Grammy with the duo for the Top 20 pop hit "The Whole World." He's also a member of the hip-hop duo Run the Jewels, which released their fourth album in June.

But Killer Mike has made noise outside of music, too. He's spoken out against police brutality, inequality in Black communities and race relations. Last year he hosted Netflix's "Trigger Warning with Killer Mike," a 2019 documentary series about issues af-

Gal Gadot tapped for Cleopatra

LOS ANGELES » Gal Gadot's casting as Cleopatra in an upcoming Paramount film has launched a debate about the Egyptian ruler's ancestry and whether the actress is right for the role.

The film, which will be directed by Patty Jenkins from a script by Laeta Kalogridis, was Gadot's idea and is being billed as an epic biographical drama.

Gadot, best known for playing Wonder Woman in two Jenkins projects (including the upcoming "Wonder Woman 1984"), is of Israeli descent. She is far from the first white woman to play the role. Claudette Colbert, Vivien Leigh and Elizabeth Taylor have all portrayed the historical figure in the past. Cleopatra was a descendant of Ptolemy I, a Macedonian Greek who established himself as king of Egypt after the death of his companion Alexander the Great. However, because her mother's identity is unknown, Cleopatra's ethnicity remains a mystery.

Memorials grow in Eddie Van Halen's adopted hometown

Legend has it that the name Van Halen, seen etched in concrete at the corner of Allen and Villa in Pasadena, Calif., was done by brothers Eddie and Alex Van Halen when they lived in Pasadena, Calif., in their younger years.

PASADENA, CALIF. » The childhood home of Eddie Van Halen and a sidewalk outside a nearby liquor store have been turned into memorials to the legendary rock guitarist in his adopted hometown near Los Angeles.

The shrines began popping up shortly after Van Halen's death from cancer at age 65 last week. The tributes have continued to grow and attract a steady stream of visitors day and night.

Van Halen was born in the Netherlands, and moved to Pasadena, Calif., with his parents and older brother Alex when he was 7.
